

CLASS OF 2010

INDIAN HILL EXEMPTED VILLAGE SCHOOL DISTRICT

A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE,
DEDICATION AND INNOVATION

T A L E N T E D

Nancy Striebich
Principal

If I had to choose one word to describe this class, I would pick the word “talented”. I look at your grade point averages, the scholarships you’ve earned, your art work, your musical expertise, your community service hours, your athletic prowess, and at the variety of your senior projects and I see amazing talent.

A song by Kutless comes to mind called “That’s What Faith Can Do.” In the song they sing, Life is so much more than what your eyes are seeing, you will find your way if you keep believing. Have faith in yourselves and in your many talents. Give 100 percent of yourself to each endeavor you take on. Because you have been so blessed in your own lives, please continue to give back to the world by sharing your many talents. ...

... Don’t think of any task as impossible, but make a commitment to make this world a better place by getting out there and sharing your own special talents and doing something to help others. Looking at all of you, I have a great sense of pride and a great feeling of hope for tomorrow. I expect great things from you. Our future is bright if it is in your hands.

... Nothing is impossible for this talented group of individuals.

Valedictorian & Salutatorian

Victoria Lewis, Valedictorian
Brian Reszutek, Salutatorian

“A good head and a good heart are always a formidable combination.”

Victoria Lewis, Valedictorian, quoting Nelson Mandela

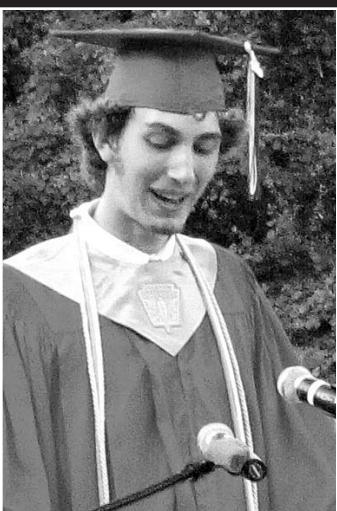

... Rites of passage, like today, seem so grand from afar, but as they arrive, we realize that it's not the days we mark on our calendars that matter, it's the in-betweens that make us who we truly are. So, today, I don't want to talk about the significance that is this so-called milestone of our young lives. I want to talk about who we are as people and my hopes for us as we approach the future.

... We've surpassed everyone's expectations. The number of chants started, spirit days participated in, games won, APs taken, and colleges applied to is unparalleled. A lot of what we did got written down on college applications and sent to some of the most prestigious institutions in the world. But so much more of what we did, we did to improve the world we live in. ... We left a legacy that will continue long after we're gone, a legacy of social awareness and concernedness. I think you all embody what Nelson Mandela meant when he said, “A good head and a good heart are always a formidable combination.”

The age in which we became young adults carried with it a far more tragic side. We were witnesses to events that shook the very foundation of our spirits. We are the kids who walk quietly through airport security, remembering the sheer terror of September 11th, the kids who practice lockdown drills, shuddering at our remembrances of Columbine and Virginia Tech, the kids who watch, unimpressed, as countless so-called role models are disgraced. These experiences have taught us one thing: that the world isn't perfect. ... but it's only made us try harder to make it a little better.

Always remember that we are strong and courageous people who will do great things if only we take the chance. Always do what you believe in, no matter what anyone else says.

... In the immortal words of John F. Kennedy, “The problems of the world cannot possibly be solved by skeptics or cynics whose horizons are limited by the obvious realities. We need men who can dream of things that never were.” It is unquestionable that we face a myriad of incredibly difficult problems as we take our first nervous steps out into the world. There will always be big obstacles and small people who stand in our way. But if anyone can do it, we can. But we can't do it alone. So never be afraid to accept help, even from the most unlikely of sources. Never be afraid of idealism; never be afraid to have faith in others. People will always surprise you and one day you may look around and find your worst enemy has become your best friend.

“... Your college lives are going to be exactly what you make of them, and I believe that by being here you have been given an excellent opportunity to make the most of that time.”

Brian Reszutek, Salutatorian

“Work hard and persevere in the pursuit of your dreams and goals.”
